- Parts of the ship, her equipment and spare parts are covered by the insurance also during the period when these objects have been temporarily removed from the ship on account of loading, discharging, repairs or reconstruction provided that the objects are to be put on board again before sailing. Notes and commentaries –

As a condition for insurance coverage of equipment and spare parts it is stipulated that these must just temporarily have been removed from the ship during the stay in port in connection with the management of the ship or due to cargo handling, repairs or reconstruction. What is meant by "reasonable time" in the event of a casualty repair has to be decided on a case by case basis.

The insurance does not include damage to, or loss of, equipment or spare parts which have been stored ashore during the time the ship is laid up. Nor does the insurance include newly acquired equipment and spare parts which have not yet been taken on board.

- Notwithstanding the provisions of the so called Disbursements Warranty, privilege is granted to insure excess General Average, Salvage and Collision Liabilities in any amount, also Protection & Indemnity (Marine and War), furthermore, it is understood "gross freight or hire" in section B shall include uncollected freight even though agreed prepaid or to be paid, ship or goods lost or not lost, and "or collected and not returnable" shall be added after each "earned" in line 222.
- Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein privilege is hereby granted to insure "Interest and/or Loss of Earnings and/or Loss of Hire" – Policy Proof of Interest – Full Interest Admitted but no claim to attach to such insurance if the accident in respect of which such claim arises is the cause of the vessel becoming a total or constructive total loss.

- One deductible to be applied to all damage sustained as a result of grounding or touching bottom during one voyage, inward and outward, river or inland waterways.
- The cost of scraping, grit and/or sand-blasting and/or other surface preparation or painting of the vessel's bottom incurred in the consequence of a peril insured against shall be included in the claim.
- For claim purposes,
